Institution name	Edinburgh Napier University
Submission title or project name	Abnormal Heart Rhythms: Changing National and Global Detection and Management
Nominee/key personnel	Professor Lis Neubeck
URL	https://www.napier.ac.uk/people/lis-neubeck
Submission	Lis Neubeck is Professor and Head of Cardiovascular Health in the School of Health and Social Care at Edinburgh Napier University. The internationally leading research and knowledge exchange undertaken by Professor Neubeck, her team at Edinburgh Napier and in collaboration with industry partners, on the early detection and appropriate management of the most common abnormal heart rhythm, atrial fibrillation, has had significant impact on the field of cardiovascular health at a national, European and global level. Her work has demonstrated the effect of new devices, which record heart rhythm and technology to detect atrial fibrillation and increases uptake of medication to prevent strokes.
