Submission	Dr David Martin, Senior Lecturer at the University of Dundee, is passionate about teaching and using imaginative ways to encourage all students to learn to the best of their ability. David continually works on enhancing the learning experience for all students and this is evident through all of David's teaching activities. He has developed tools and materials to teach key scientific concepts in unique and innovative ways. Many of these are interactive and entertaining which facilitates learning and provides a positive and engaging environment. He shares these innovations with colleagues in Dundee and across the HE sector. David takes a genuine interest in his students and they feel able to go to him for advice and assistance on academic matters but also personal ones. He is regularly nominated by his students for the Student Association (student-led) teaching awards, which indicates the high esteem in which they hold him.
