

THE AWARDS ASIA 2022

International Strategy of the Year

Institution name	University of International Business and Economics (UIBE), School of International Development and Cooperation (SIDC)
Submission title or project name	School of International Development and Cooperation (SIDC) – the story of a young department successfully connecting China, Africa, and the world
Nominee/key personnel	Professor Haisen Zhang
URL	http://sidc.uibe.edu.cn/
Submission	The School of International Development and Cooperation (SIDC) is the youngest department in the University of International Business and Economics (UIBE). Established on September 28th in 2018, right after the establishment of China International Development Cooperation Agency, SIDC is the first and currently the only faculty in China that specializes in both instruction and research in the field of “international development”. As the youngest faculty in the university, SIDC is growing vibrantly by collaborating with various international entities, e.g., the United Nations, German Corporation for International Cooperation. It also invites foreign talents to provide academic talks even under the pandemic, supervises international students for master and doctoral programs, publishes widely in internationally recognized academic journals, etc. We believe that SIDC will soon become the most active entity in its international strategy in both UIBE and in the country.