

AGILE & DEVOPS Testing Services

A proven range of services to help test teams update test practices to realise the benefits of Agile or DevOps without compromising on the quality or delivery schedule. Whether you've already adopted, considering adopting, or need testers experienced in delivering Agile and DevOps projects, we can help.

Consultation

nFocus Testing will provide a free consultation to understand your current testing situation at a high level. nFocus can then provide an informed recommendation on how we can best support your testing efforts, whilst providing valuable feedback on your current approach.

Agile Test Process Review

This review provides an insight into the operational health of your Agile Test Process or proposed approach if you're considering moving to Agile. nFocus' team provide objectivity and an unbiased view to a situation or need, something those close to a situation may have difficulty achieving. Typically taking five to fifteen days depending on the scope, we inspect and review how you've approached the "events", "roles", and "artefacts" that make up your Agile process to ensure testing delivers quality at the required level. The review explores which activities testers are involved in and the role of Test Automation. The review also investigates definition of 'Ready' and definition of 'Done' ensuring sufficient entry and completion criteria to achieve the desired quality level. A final report will be presented with our findings and recommendations.

Implementing the Roadmap

Our expert team can then help you implement some or all of the roadmap to accelerate your adoption and realise the benefits of Agile quickly.
