

COMSEC'S PCI DSS

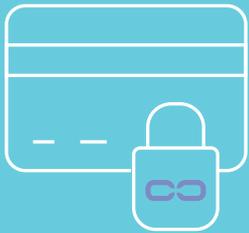

COMSEC

Core Value

Comsec is a market-leading QSA company operating in Europe, North America and Southeast Asia. We assist our clients to achieve compliance by adopting a pragmatic and production-oriented approach.

Achieving compliance with minimal impact on production - this is how we define success.

Comsec's PCI DSS Service

PCI DSS is a detailed and strict standard, published by the PCI SSC, intended to secure credit card data, both at rest and in transit.

PCI DSS also examines information security management as well as secure development processes within the organization or the scoped environment.

PCI DSS applies to entities that store, process or transmit cardholder data and also to entities that might affect the security controls of such environments, for example hosting providers, managed service providers, or remote SIEM/SOC service providers.

Why Comsec

Increased fraud and identity theft involving stolen credit card data led to the formulation of the PCI DSS standard to stem losses for the card providers and to improve consumer confidence.

The credit card payment brands, VISA and MasterCard, authorized country's local acquirers to enforce the standard with the local merchants and payment service providers.

Once the requirement for compliance is received by a company, the entity must certify its environment by issuing the relevant self-assessment questionnaire (SAQ) or by conducting a full assessment with a QSA company, depending on its merchant/service provider level according to PCI classification.

Beyond compliance, there are real business risks relative to brand, customer loyalty, and corporate reputation if the payment data is not securely managed.
