

WE DEVELOP RELIABLE MOBILE APPLICATIONS AND CUSTOMIZED SOFTWARE

We create applications that make your job easier

In the provision of IT services the Pilsen company UBK s.r.o., which works with foreign companies such as Rödl & Partner and Axon International, has many years of experience.

The roots of UBK s.r.o. go back to the year 2004, when it originated as a branch of the company UBK GmbH in Germany. The company declared its independence 9 years later and since then it has become a professional on the market. A total of eight teams are involved in solving the individual needs of customers with the help of all common technologies and their own proven methods, which ensure a high quality of the final product.

Customized development of a mobile application or software is usually more expensive from the point of view of the initial investment. However, you can be sure that you will get exactly what you need. The expenses for each part of the application are completely under your control. The application can be gradually expanded to adapt your needs, which usually change over time. You just know what you pay for.

How can be developed customized mobile applications and software applications? At the very beginning, the most important thing is a good analysis and a system proposal. It is a guarantee of understanding between the customer and the supplier. The result of this phase is a detailed catalog of requirements on which basis the programmers can start their work. In the development of applications, we work with agile methods in high-quality teams.

It is also important to remember that the project requirements may change with the growth of the organization and the changes of external factors. However, a high-quality software team should be able to predict and attach importance to the distribution, editing and possible integration with other systems.

We have the experience of using the projects in different environments. It can be a rented hosting or a complex heterogeneous environment with requirements such as high accessibility. The way in which the work is implemented in the target environment is discussed with the customer at an early stage.

An application developed by professionals can save the customer a lot of money that he can spend on other projects.

Another strong side of UBK s.r.o. is the development of web presentations, e-shops, the granting of funding advice (including the complex realization of funding projects), workflow management, digitization and process optimization. The company pays attention to a continuous professional and linguistic training of its employees and it also considers important a regular charitable activity. UBK s.r.o. financially supports The Center for Hematology and Oncology of the University Hospital Pilsen and The Children's Home Domino in Pilsen.
