

Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards 2026

HOW TO ENTER ENTRY RULES AND INFORMATION

The CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards

The CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards programme is the global benchmark for excellence in procurement and supply chain management. The awards recognise individuals, teams and organisations from the global community of procurement and supply professionals across a range of categories.

The CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards programme is, uniquely, hosted by the Chartered Institute for Procurement and Supply (CIPS), the awarding body for the profession that sets the Global Standard for Procurement and Supply.

Winning a CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply award is the pinnacle of achievement for procurement and supply professionals and teams. Winners enjoy a year-long programme of benefits in recognition of their achievements – and can display the coveted CIPS badge of recognition.

The CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards ceremony is held on 10 September 2026 at JW Marriott Grosvenor House, 86-90 Park Lane, London, W1K 7TN, UK.

HOW TO ENTER ONLINE

- All entries are submitted online. We encourage you to log in to the entry system at excellenceawardscips.com early to familiarise yourself before working on your submission.
- Please refer to each category for the specific information required for each entry.
- All information needs to be submitted via the submission portal into the text boxes provided.
- The only documents you may upload are any supporting materials.
- You may wish to have all the information ready to input into each of the text fields before submitting your entry. You can copy text over from a Word document, but please ensure the document has no formatting, bullet points or pictures. Please see category criteria for detailed information regarding the word counts for each section.
- Note you can pay early and then have until the standard deadline to submit your entry details.
- All entries must provide a title and 100-word executive summary that gives a short overview of the project/individual. Please note that the executive summary will be published on the awards website once the shortlist is announced, so we kindly request you do not provide confidential facts or figures within this summary. Please make your title concise and meaningful..

SOME HELPFUL TIPS BEFORE YOU SUBMIT YOUR ENTRY

- We encourage you to read the category criteria carefully. All entries must be submitted online at excellenceawardscips.com
- Pick the right project. Check the category description and pick a project where you can show a positive outcome and impressive results.
- Judges are looking for mature projects where there is clear evidence of results delivered. Show detail. Consider the time period for the project/initiative.
- Looking at past winner case studies will help you choose the right category and provide tips for your submission. There's lots more information in our 2025 Winners Book.
- Get great testimonials!
- Leave yourself enough time. Please refer to the key dates section for entry deadlines.

A FEW NOTES

If you are a consultancy, technology or procurement service provider, you can ONLY enter the following categories. Clients must be named within your submission:

- Procurement Consultancy Project of the Year
- Best Use of Digital Technology

Procurement teams from these organisations can enter any category but it must not relate to delivering client services.

Entries are open to both members and non-members. If you're not a CIPS member, you may use a team member's membership number for the awards entry.

Entries are open to all projects, teams and individuals from around the world.

Entries must be for work conducted between 1 January 2025 - 27 April 2026.

*Please note that a portion of the work must have occurred during this time, but it does not necessarily need to have been started or completed during the eligibility period.

HOW TO ENTER ENTRY RULES AND INFORMATION

JUDGING PROCESS

Entries for the CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards are submitted from a range of global organisations and sectors. As a result, we select independent judges (CIPS is not a judge) with high levels of knowledge and experience of procurement and supply. Procurement leaders are invited from a range of sectors based on their knowledge, expertise and skills, giving assurance to anyone who enters the awards that their submission is judged by the best of our profession.

To ensure we are transparent with our processes we wanted to provide you with more information about the role of our judges and the judging process itself.

Our judges will:

- Sign confidentiality agreements and agree not to engage in conversations with individuals or organisations who are entering or pass on hints and tips outside of the official CIPS channels.
- Declare any conflicts of interest and will be removed from judging or viewing categories where these are identified.
- Draw on their knowledge and experience to assess entries in their given categories.
- Check all entries meet the correct category criteria and re-allocate into correct categories if necessary.
- Provide scores and written comments on all shortlisted entrants and award winners, though these comments and scores will not be shared with candidates afterwards. The judges' decision is final and no correspondence related to the decisions will be entered into.

Further information about our awards process:

- Access to the entries and judging system is limited to our judges and the awards administration team only.
- During and following the awards, we may wish to acknowledge and celebrate the achievements of candidates and winners, so may approach you for further comment and information, to form the basis of editorial coverage. However, no information submitted as part of your award nomination will be shared without your permission.
- Entries are open to both CIPS members and non-members.
- CIPS reserves the right to adjust individual categories – for example, splitting public and private sector entrants – depending on the volume and nature of the entries received. CIPS reserves the right to move entries into a more suitable category.
- Sponsors are not permitted to judge the CIPS Excellence in Procurement & Supply Awards.
- Organisations who sponsor a category are not permitted to enter that specific category.

INDIVIDUAL CATEGORIES

LEADER OF THE YEAR

Recognising an outstanding individual leader who delivers for their organisation and drives forward the procurement and supply profession.

This award recognises a procurement and supply chain leader whose achievements in the previous 12 to 24 months are worthy of special recognition.

The panel will be looking for an individual who is:

- Making an exceptionally positive impact on their organisation – whether financial, cultural or reputational.
- Pushing forward their organisation's procurement and supply strategy.
- Making a positive contribution to the reputation of the profession – through the value they deliver to their own organisations and the work they do to raise the profile of the profession more widely.

This category is not open for entry. Instead Leader of the Year will be selected by an independent CIPS-hosted panel of procurement and supply leaders and experts.

YOUNG TALENT

Recognising rising stars of the procurement and supply profession who inspire through their achievements and behaviours.

This award will be presented to rising stars – the profession's "ones to watch". It is open to procurement and supply professionals aged 30 or under as of January 2026. The judges will look for evidence of achievement that is significant and beyond what is normally expected from professionals of this age and experience.

- 1 Describe three of your most significant career achievements to date.
- 2 What challenges have you overcome in your career and what have you learnt as a result of them? (Total of 500 words for both questions.)
- 3 Please tell us the positive difference you hope to make through your career in procurement and supply (50 to 100 words).

Candidates for this category are welcome to include testimonials from colleagues.

INDIVIDUAL CATEGORIES

SUSTAINABLE PROCUREMENT CHAMPION

This award recognises individuals who are driving sustainability leadership in their organisation, as well as making an inspirational impact in the wider profession and pushing the dial on the sustainability agenda.

Our judging panel will undertake the first round of judging in this category to determine the shortlist. The shortlisted entries will then be put to a public vote from the procurement and supply community to determine the winner.

Questions

- 1 Describe your vision and achievements on driving sustainability in your organisation.
- 2 Outline your wider positive contribution to drive sustainability within the wider profession (total of 500 words for both questions).

Entrants must also provide a short video highlighting why they should win. Videos from shortlisted entrants will be made public and form the basis for the procurement and supply community to vote on the winner.

The video does not need to be of high quality and should run for no more than three minutes. The video should be hosted on YouTube or Vimeo. The video should have captions enabled.
